

Get your career moving with us!

As professional recruiters since 1990, we'd like to explain why this is the moment to consider your next career move.

Since April, we have witnessed a growing pace in a previously difficult staffing market. Our phones have started ringing again; with clients launching new recruitment plans, and candidates looking to make a positive career step.

Many skilled Sales and Technical Telecoms people are increasingly looking for, and finding out that better jobs do exist for them!

We can also see these positive signals right across our client base; and our instincts tell us that we are approaching a candidate-led marketplace again. It may not happen overnight, but it is coming!

We need your help...so that we can help you.

By receiving this message you are one of the many, many people that have spoken to us since we founded JMA in 2003. However we have lost touch with so many of you!

So we are reaching out to our entire contact list; and invite you to send your CV, update us with current telephone numbers, or to just tell us what job you want...whether it's for now or six months time!

This is a huge task, but worth the effort. We can't promise to have the perfect job for you immediately, but we can promise to try, and to keep on trying.

Many of our clients, large and small, right across the country have come on-board with this, and are waiting to see if you respond and what skills you can bring to their business!

Your new career beckons!
